

OMI Job Bank to open

The OMI-CA will begin a job bank service this summer.

Tentatively open Wednesdays and Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., the job bank will have on file a wide range of job announcements sent to the OMI-CA. Residents are asked to stop by the OMI-CA office at 201 Granada or call 584-8189 to register. There is no fee.

In turn, any OMI NEWS reader who may call the OMI-CA with information on a part- or full-time job will be matched with job seekers who may have the necessary abilities needed.

Heading the project will be Mrs. Addie Wallace, a volunteer with the OMI-CA and a former bank operations officer. She was inspired to set up the job bank after aiding Ms. Veronica Hunnicutt at a Bullock's job night last month. She found most persons applying for Bullock's jobs highly motivated and qualified, some with many years of work experience.

For background on the operations of a job bank, Wallace recently visited a women's placement office in Palo Alto. Although she found that office much more sophisticated than the OMI-CA can hope to become overnight, she has visions.

"I think that's the way we have to go," she said. "If you're going to go into this type of thing you're going to have to be competitive with other agencies."

The job bank will be part of the OMI-CA Preferential Hiring Committee, which is also sponsoring a job education conference at City College on June 25. For a full story on this conference see page 2, column 1.

OMI crime down 5%; police warn of rapist

by Marsha Fontes

Recent statistics show that although crime is up 9% in the Ingleside Police District, it dropped slightly in the OMI area.

In March, there were 14 robberies and 46 burglaries in the OMI, about a 5% drop. Ingleside Captain Jeremiah Taylor said that the decline was due to increased police surveillance and the arrests of burglary suspects in the area. He also cited the positive effects of Block Clubs formed in the area and he is looking forward to a continuing decrease in the crime rate through police and neighborhood cooperation.

The statistics also show that 80% of the burglaries of OMI homes occur during the day, while 56% of the robberies that include violence occur at night.

The bad news is that in the past few months there have been eight rapes in the area. Taylor said the (see page 2, col. 1)

Mayor's summer job program: not enough jobs to go around.

More than 800 youths have applied for the 195 jobs available through the OMI Mayor's 1977 Summer Youth Employment Program.

The selection of those youth hired will be the responsibility of Area Supervisor Erroll Jackson and his assistant, Rochelle Richmond. All those hired must come from a family with a maximum personal income set by federal standards.

Those hired will begin July 5 with a series of orientation workshops presenting information on how to apply for jobs, what types of jobs to look for and how to act during an interview.

The OMI-CA has been selected as one of the Community Based Agencies for the program. The OMI program area extends through much of the southwestern part of the city. Job sites with full-time supervision will include clerical work, child care, recreation, tutoring, maintenance, arts and crafts, and food program assistants. Youths will work 20 hours per week for eight weeks.

Register for special election

San Francisco residents have until July 4 to register to vote for the important August 2 special election. Register now. It takes only a phone call to the S.F. Registrar of Voters at 558-3417 to receive a voter registration postcard. This postcard is also now available in the OMI-CA office and in many shops and other places in the OMI.

The special election has been called as a result of two petitions which recorded signatures from 10% of the city's registered voters. (The cost of the special election has been estimated in excess of $400,000) On the ballot will be Proposition A, which would be repeal P the idea of district election of San Francisco supervisors, which was approved by nearly 60% of the voters last November. Proposition B would call for the mayor, sheriff and district attorney to be up for election again in November. Prop. B would also make the election of supervisors again city-wide.

in theatrical arts at City College. He served as the OMI Assistant Area Supervisor last summer.

Ms. Richmond, 24, is an accounting major at Golden Gate University. She has done summer work with junior high students and with the mentally retarded.

Persons interested in providing a job site for the program are asked to call the OMI-CA before June 16 at 584-8189.

New editor sought

The OMI NEWS is seeking an editor/advertisement salesperson for the 1977-78 year, which will run from August 1977 through May 1978. The job would be part-time, up to 30 hours per week. Some background in sales, journalism and art or graphics is required. It is preferred that the person hired live in the OMI area.

The position pays $300 per month. All persons wanting to apply should send a resume to the OMI-CA Board of Directors, 201 Granada Ave., San Francisco, CA. 94112. The initial deadline for applications will be July 15.

Job education conference at City College June 25

A job education conference will be sponsored by the OMI Community Association at City College Little Theatre and adjoining Arts Building, Saturday, June 25, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Entitled "The Changing Job Market: Are You Ready For It?" the conference will feature a luncheon address by Assemblyman Willie Brown and a series of workshops, covering such areas as job-seeking skills, a career development, how to work within the corporate or union structure, and opportunities for veterans.

"A major problem for many people, both youths and adults, is knowing what opportunities are available and how to take advantage of these opportunities," said Veronica Hunnicutt, conference coordinator. "At this conference we will attempt to raise the level of expectations of many people. We will try to give them real skills at finding and holding a job that meets their potential."

Workshop guests will include: Sandy Johnson, KQED; Haddie Redd, S.F. District Attorney's Office; and Henry Williams, Director of Police Community Relations.

The fee for the workshop is $1 for students and seniors, $2 for adults. Persons interested in attending are asked to register by filling out the form below and sending it to the OMI-CA office.

Rapist in OMI area

police believe the rapes have been done by the same man, described as a black male, 17 to 22 years of age, of slight build, about 5 feet 7 inches and 135 lbs., and with a medium to short afro hairstyle. Most of his victims have been young women walking during the day near City College or San Francisco State. The man is armed.

Taylor believes that the hope of apprehending this man and preventing other rapes rests with the cooperation of the public. Taylor advises women to openly resist a rapist: scream, fight, run, create as large a commotion as possible and contact the police as soon as possible. Persons who believe they have information on this man are asked to call 553-0123. Callers are not required to give their names or addresses.

To The People

Of the OMI Community

and Its Supporters

Since I last wrote of the community interest something has come to my attention and I would like to share it with you and get your input. As you may or may not know we are an all-volunteer organization. Every individual with the exception of our newspaper editor is working strictly on a volunteer basis. I mention this because it has been brought to my attention by several people who thought we were not an all-volunteer staff.

Our organization is supported in whole by your contributions and dues and the fund raising affairs we organize on behalf of you, our members and community residents. So won't you lend us a helping hand in this much needed organization, to make us and to keep us strong, to be able to fight your and our battles on issues pertaining to the OMI area.

I also would like to have your opinions on such things as helping our residents in times of emergency, such as in fires, like the one that burned a home just off Lakeview Street two weeks ago. This is the kind of thing that we should concern ourselves with, and I would like to hear your thoughts.

Our street fair was a success and we had a very good turnout despite the weather. We feel everyone had a very nice time. As yet I can't report if we made or lost money, but we will report to any interested person, after we have had time to go over our expenses.

So until our September issue, have a very pleasant summer and most of all, be of good cheer.

Brooks Park picnic

A pot luck picnic is scheduled June 18 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Brooks Park at Shields and Ramsell Streets. The purpose of the picnic, hosted by the OMI-CA, is to bring residents together at the city-owned site to envision development of the site as a family recreation area. Ideas from residents are necessary before making final plans with the City Planning Department.

Persons interested in attending, helping plan for the event or contribute food are asked to call Mrs. Margaret Dorn at 586-2190 or Mr. Isaac Reid at 587-7336 or Mr. Lonnie Lawson at 585-2808.

property tax-rate for the people who own or rent in our City.

Equally important, we have taken strong steps to deliver more efficient, dependable city services to the people of San Francisco during the coming year. The Mayor's budget zeroed in on the problem of MUNI vehicle maintenance, for example, and I am pleased that we will be able to place more MUNI buses on the streets this year because of this new program. We are taking similar steps to provide more community-oriented health care programs, police enforcement, street cleaning efforts, and other services as well.

I don't have to remind readers that a special election scheduled for this August 2, would have the effect of reversing many of the progressive steps which our City has taken in recent years.

For example, Proposition A on the August 2 ballot would nullify district elections of Supervisors — which the voters have already approved — before it even has a chance to take effect.

Proposition B on the August 2 ballot would plunge our City into a tailspin of political chaos, which would have long-range devastating effects. Proposition B would force the Mayor, the District Attorney, and the Sheriff to cut short their lawful, four-year terms in office and run for reelection this November, two years early. It is clear that the people behind this chaotic plan are expressing a "sour grapes" attitude toward the results of the 1975 citywide election, and are trying to overthrow the elected leadership of this City.

The rules of democratic fair-play require that our City leaders be given a chance to prove themselves in office with their voter-approved four-year term. If they fail or succeed, the people will let them know loud and clear in the next general election. But Proposition B does not play by the rules.

As I have shown, I am working hard to deliver more efficient City services — and at a lower cost — to you. We have more important things to do in this City than continually re-stage elections in which the people of San Francisco have already spoken.

Let's defeat Proposition B this August, and get on with the business of making this a better city in which to live.

I am pleased to have this opportunity to discuss important developments at City Hall and in the neighborhoods with the readers of the OMI NEWS. The movement toward greater grassroots strength in our neighborhoods has been a significant trend in recent years, and the OMI NEWS provides a useful forum for the citizens in this important neighborhood of our City.

The residents of the OMI will be pleased to know that the City budget which I submitted to the Board of Supervisors this year will not require any new tax-rate increase in San Francisco. The people of our City have made it clear that they want City Hall to spend their tax dollars carefully and effectively — and I am proud that the Mayor's budget for 1977-78 will not generate a higher

Preparing now for post-earthquake trauma

by Marsha Fontes

Actions taken now can be important to lessen post-earthquake trauma, especially for the young and the elderly.

Dr. Alfred Auerback, a leading San Francisco Psychiatrist, past-president of the S.F. Mental Health Board, and local resident has just completed a book dealing with the psychic trauma associated with disaster. The OMI NEWS interviewed Dr. Auerback and got a preview of a chapter from his book entitled "The San Francisco Earthquake: Disaster Yet to Come."

when the almost-certain earthquake strikes, besides a devastating loss of property, there will occur a frightening, unexpected, delayed trauma for individuals. Symptoms of this trauma may include feelings of disorientation, panic and aloneness. These symptoms will be most apparent in children and the elderly, those who are least able to deal with the confusion of a post-disaster San Francisco. Dr. Auerback feels that most of these symptoms can be eliminated by supportive community and family action.

does not precipitate mental breakdown or psychotic behavior, except in rare instances," said Dr. Auerback. "Initially, the human response is geared to life-saving activities. Only after the immediate disaster has passed, do neurotic symptoms manifest themselves. The more support the individual is given during the immediate post-disaster period, the less likelihood of long-lasting psychological impairment."

Below is a checklist of things every family should do to help eliminate as much as possible, the trauma that may be expected after an earthquake.

Pre-quake family checklist

1. Discuss, as a family, what may be expected in an earthquake.
2. Assure the children that they will not be alone during an earthquake and will not be left alone afterwards.
3. Talk about what each family member is to do, where the safe places are in the home, what places are to be avoided. Warn

- children that if the earthquake takes place at night, there might not be any lights.
4. Talk and plan what children are to do if they are at school during an earthquake. Find out what the school's disaster plan is and your part in it as a project.
5. Get to know your neighbors and discuss with them what may be done if earthquake strikes.

6. Make sure that elderly neighbors know they can count on you for help. Don't leave them alone after a quake.
7. Stockpile emergency food and water. Have one or more flashlights and a battery-operated radio handy.
8. Familiarize yourself with first aid procedures and keep a first aid kit.

Following the 1906 San Francisco earthquake, stables at the Ingleside Race Track were used for refugee housing. On the inner grounds of the race track a tent city was born. (The outline of the old race track is now marked by Urbano Drive in the Ingleside Terrace District.)

OMI MERCHANT

Westwood Market family affair

by Frances Marvin

Westwood Market was neat, clean and all too quiet at noon on Tuesday. Proprietor Danny Jun, smiling inquiringly, alert as a wound spring, was free to be interviewed.

He had already made his rounds of the farmers' market choosing produce to sell fresher and cheaper than the supermarkets. He was glad to talk about the improvements he plans with his partner-brother John and what they have accomplished since taking over the market at the corner of Ocean Avenue and Faxon last June.

Fresh paint inside and out, with advice on colors from the Housing Conservation Institute program in OMI, is next on the agenda. Then in June they will add $20,000 worth of merchandise to the present stock of $40,000, using existing space more efficiently to be ready for new customers when Safeway closes.

"Our customers are like a family," explained Danny. "They know us and we know them. We can talk with them.

"About 50% of our customers come in nearly every day," he added.

Though their parents once kept a different sort of grocery in Seoul, Korea, before immigrating here three years ago with their mother, two other brothers and four sisters, Danny studied mechanical engineering, and John studied electrical engineering at the Inha Technical Institute at Inchon. They came here expecting to learn the latest methods in engineering, but ready for any chance to try "something new and challenging."

In adult school in San Francisco the brothers learned to speak and understand English, which they could only read and write before. Later both studied English at City College for two semesters, until they became too busy with the store.

The Ocean Avenue store employs only one person from outside the family. The meat department is a concession of Bob Lee, who has run it for about two years. Danny and John work from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. every day with real pioneer spirit.

John, taller and more relaxed than his brother, commented, "Any job takes work, but we like to do it. Since we have our own business we have to do all that needs to be done."

As to leisure activities, there are only memories of sports in Korea: basketball, soccer, swimming, skating. When they have time, they catch up with the newspaper and watch the news on TV. There is no time for social life outside the store.

"As long as I am in this country, I like to be an American so I can improve myself and improve this business," declared Danny.

Bargains in recycled goods

A nine-foot living-room couch for $55, women's dresses from $2 to $20, blouses from $2 to $5, sweaters from $1 to $5, and men's and women's slacks at $2: these are 1977 prices, that is if you don't mind being a second owner.

Several thrift stores are now located in the OMI and they provide bargains galore. Clausen House Thrift Shop at 1831 Ocean Avenue does a brisk business selling second-hand clothing and other items ranging from birdcages to kitchen sinks.

"Buying at second-hand stores is the latest thing," says Mrs. Jeanette Egan, manager of the thrift shop. "Jackie Kennedy recycles her things."
